'Tis the season for festive fare

Anything Fishy specialises in delivering fresh fish and seafood to Wagga, Cootamundra and Tumut.

Anything that's fine, and fishy

ANYTHING Fishy are a wholly owned family Australian company based in Cootamundra which been in business for 12 years.

They are a seafood merchant specialising in the supply and service of fresh seafood in Wagga, Cootamundra directly transported from Sydney Fish Market.

No order is too complex or too small.

A former cattle farmer, Anything Fishy's owner Brett Andrews is now as passionate about seafood as he is Riverina beef.

"I'm at Sydney Fish Markets every Wednesday before dawn and I only buy on the basis of what's best," Brett said. "I look for bright eyes, a scarlet colour of the gills, firm flesh but the most important factor is smell - unless it's a sweet fresh smell, I won't touch it."

SOUTH Wagga Butchery is geared up for yet another huge festive trading season with a host of old favorites and an extensive selection of new delicacies already in stock.

The big seller of the season promises to be fresh tiger prawns flown direct from the Gold Coast, which are all ready in big demand.

South Wagga Butchery also has a large selection of varieties and sizes of hams, which are proving popular for end of your celebrations in the lead up to Christmas.

Their normal supply of pork and turkey roasts are also in demand.

However, this year Liam has added a selection of frozen cryovaced fish to his permanent selection just in time for Christmas.

"We expect our barramundi, salmon,

South Wagga Butchery owner Liam Hanigan, Barry Lonsdale, Brett Garrett, Nathan Scott, Michell Carroll and manager Ray Farrell with a small selection of festive fare which is now available.

schnapper and orange roughly to attract a lot of new customers this festive season, although they will now be available all the year round," Liam said.

"At South Wagga

Butchery we always go out of our way to ensure we fill orders for our customers but to make sure they don't miss out on Christmas Eve, it's best to have orders in by December 22."

With their top range and friendly service from knowledgeable staff, the butchery always does brisk trade but the boys will be working overtime as Christmas 2013 approaches.

From Monday December 17 until Christmas Eve, South Wagga Butchery will be trading seven days a week from 6am-6pm weekdays and from 6am-12.30pm on weekends.
