

TRANSPORT & COURIER GUIDE

All in the family

Silvalite Fuel Stop proprietors Tim and Kate Towse with their twin toddlers Hamish and Lachlan.

THE Silvalite servo on Ashmont Ave has been a Wagga landmark for longer than most locals can remember.

And to this day it remains locally owned. Riverina born and bred - having grown up in Collingullie and Uranquinty and going to school in Wagga -

Tim Towse took over the Silvalite with his wife Kate about six years ago.

Now supplied with diesel and unleaded fuel by independent distributor Liberty, the Towses are committed to supporting local producers and businesses.

"Whenever possible we use local products," Tim said. "Our pies, sausage rolls and some of our cakes are baked by Dosser's Quality Bakery and our eggs are supplied by Dunns Free Range Eggs at Collingullie."

"We bake some of our own cakes, and all our sandwiches, rolls and wraps are freshly made to order."

The servo has also teamed up with Steel Supplies - where purchases of more than $50 or $100 entitles customers to Silvalite discount fuel vouchers of 5c and 10c a litre respectively

Flexible and convenient

LITTLE Green Truck is not a dedicated courier service or a specialist furniture removalist service but a flexible, convenient and cost effective alternative for all the jobs inbetween.

Wayne Wan took over the national company's Wagga and surrounding areas this year.

Wayne's 1 tonne Ford Falcon utility with a tray with drop sides is a versatile vehicle for all sorts of jobs.

"I can move small households, furniture and electrical goods, building products and even small machinery lawn movers," he said.

Little Green Truck representative for Wagga and surrounding area Wayne Wan.

"I can also pickup and deliver items starting from $30. The ute is perfect for moving offices or shop contents and I am available to subcontract for businesses."

Wayne is available seven days a week from 8am-7pm. Phone him on 0424 520 370.
