WAGGA FOREST NURSERY

Michael ensures nursery blooms

MICHAEL Forrell recognised the potential in the WAGGA FOREST NURSERY during his employment with Forests NSW, after witnessing the closure of the Narrandera production nursery.

Keen to continue the supply of Australian Native Plants in forestry tube stock for government, land care groups, councils, farmers, and the general public, the nursery has been transformed and now produces large quantities of local provenance native plants, as well as a huge range of salvia and exotics.

The nursery now employs three local highly qualified staff and casual propagation assistants with combined experience of over 100 years.

With these qualifications we can now offer professional service and advice on a wide range of plants and their requirements.

We also provide a garden consultancy and design option through to professional delivery, contract planting and garden maintenance.

We stock all the latest plant releases as they become available and are happy to fill orders from our preferred suppliers including Riverina Nursery, Taylors, Wildtech, Humphris, Plant Growers Association, Proteaflora, Mansfields, Larkman's nursery, Grow Better and Flemings.

Our professional association with these highly regarded companies allows us to offer a diverse range of products.

When you tire of the multi-nationals, shopping trolleys in the concrete nursery, return to nature and experience the good old fashion nursery experience at your locally owned Wagga Forest Nursery.

Experience you can count on

VIRGINIA

VIRGINIA comes to us with a warm, friendly manner after spending 29 years in local garden centres

With her wealth of experience and local planting knowledge, Virginia specializes in all exotic plants, tropical and shade-loving plants.

She offers helpful advice on plant choices, general nurture and care of your garden, pests and diseases, soil preparation and soil correction.

DIANNE

HAVING spent five years working at Forrelli's Salvia Nursery, Dianne joins Mike, Shane and Virginia to form the complete nursery team. Dianne brings with her a wealth of exotic and native plant knowledge achieved mainly through landscaping and planting suburban and acreage gardens.

She can assist you with advice on plant choice and general garden preparation and plant care.

SHANE

HAVING worked for forest's NSW nurseries for 19 years, both in Wagga and Narrandera, Shane comes to us as a Australian native/local native species specialist offering friendly advice on general care and maintenance.

Shane can assist you with advice on native windbreak/screen species selection and establishment, revegetation, saline areas, erosion control. Avenues and general farm planting. He can also assist with plant recognition.

WAGGA FOREST NURSERY

Native plants for four decades

WAGGA Forest Nursery has been supplying quality Australian native plants from tube stock to advanced size throughout Australia for more than 40 years.

We are committed to continue the supply of fresh forestry tubes, as well as general landscape and exotic plants

Also, as a result of the importance of water wise plants, Salvia has become a popular choice for landscapers and the home gardener alike.

Featured in many publications and television garden segments Salvia plants are gaining a well deserved reputation with a huge variety now available at specialist nurseries.

We identified the need to stock a large range of Forrelli's Salvia to satisfy the ever growing demand from the general public for variety in both colour and growth habit for varying climates and situations.

All our plants are propagated or acclimatised on site and grown in our conditions surviving minus 2 in winter to 43C in summer.

Being contained in black plastic pots we do offer some protection during extreme weather.

At the nursery we have many varieties growing in our gardens for your viewing.

You are always welcome to visit the Wagga Forest Nursery and view our large selection of plants.

Please use this site to order your plants with confidence, as we offer a guarantee that your plants will arrive in excellent condition.
