See the changes

EAST Goulburn Public School community is inviting former students, their parents, grandparents, teachers and other people who have had an association with the school over its history to join with the current group to celebrate its 125 years of public education.

The celebration will take place on Sunday September 9, at the school, starting at 10am with the official welcome.

The current school community is very proud of its achievements and the facilities it has to enhance the students learning. Visitors on the day are invited to take a tour and see how different the school is now from when they attended.

There will be books of photographs from the past as well as more recent times on display as well as school records and memorabilia from times gone by.

This is a great opportunity to catch up with old friends and class mates. There will be commemorative pens and tea-towels on sale and you can have your attendance at the school or that of a relative recognised by purchasing a paver to make up part of the commemorative walkway.

At noon after the cake cutting the barbecue will be fired up for lunch. Or for old times sake you might like to bring along some sandwiches wrapped in greaseproof paper or waxed lunch wrap, if you can still get it, and enjoy a family picnic.

There will be live music, market stalls food and drinks for sale, a jumping castle and other activities to keep the children amused too.

Goulburn East Public School has come a long way since the days of writing slates, ink wells and blotting paper. Today even the kindergarten students are learning to use computers. Teaching methods have changed too and students are exposed to a wider range of activities not only in the classroom but in the playground too.

If you know someone who used to attend the school and may not know about the 125th anniversary, contact them and encourage them to bring their family along to this special day.

If you have any special memorabilia or photographs you would like to share with the school or have included in its collection contact the office on 4821 4007.
