

Physical as Anything online

PARENTS, teachers and healthcare professionals can now access a user-friendly website to help them better support school children with a medical, developmental or psychological condition.

www.physicalasanything.com is written for teachers, schools, healthcare professionals, students and families.

This resource is endorsed by the NSW Department of Education and Communities and NSW Health.

It provides detailed descriptions of more than 50 conditions affecting school-aged children and young people. Importantly, it also describes the educational implications of each condition.

www.physicalasanything.com is written for teachers, schools, healthcare professionals, students and families.

All contributors are acknowledged as experts in their fields.

You will find information on:

- * Medical, developmental, psychological conditions of childhood and adolescence

- * Implications of each condition for a student's education

* Resources for teachers to assist in providing effective support to these students.

There are two main sections to this website.

Section 1: The A-Z of medical, developmental and psychological conditions

You will find information on more than 50 conditions

All the information has been contributed by a panel of medical and educational experts.

All the articles are peer-reviewed to ensure accuracy, reliability, currency and endorsed by the NSW Department of Education and Communities and NSW Health.

Section 2: For School and teachers, Parents and carers, and Healthcare professionals.

You will find resources, videos, information you can download and useful weblinks.
