

Making a mark

FOR more than 40 years Monaro Mix Specified Concrete has been making its mark on the Canberra and Queanbeyan region.

Founded in Queanbeyan in 1971, Monaro Mix is the longest surviving family owned concrete supply company in the region, with strong ties to the local community.

The company has continued to grow within the expanding construction market, now boasting concrete plants at both Mitchell and Bungendore as well as the original plant in Queanbeyan.

To complement these plants and to provide superior service to its customers, Monaro Mix have a modern fleet of 22 concrete trucks and three concrete boom pumps, ranging in size from 36 to 40m.

Monaro Mix has the resources and expertise to supply and pump quality premixed concrete suitable for your backyard shed in Queanbeyan right through to large commercial developments.

Currently Monaro Mix employs more than 30 staff and contractors, most of which come from the local area, and all contribute to the Monaro Mix team.

The company has been a long-time supporter of many events in Queanbeyan, including the Charity Rodeo.

This ongoing support of the Rodeo is one way in which the Monaro Mix Team proudly contributes to the local community.

Rodeo in the blood

THE Queanbeyan Rodeo is more than just an annual event for Patches Asphalt owners, Norman and Christine McMahon.

Rodeo has been part of Norm's life since riding bulls in his teenage years within the region and throughout NSW, while Christine is a committee member of the Rodeo and has the role of sponsorship coordinator.

Funds raised through the annual Rodeo are routinely donated to worthy and critical services like Palliative Care and the Queanbeyan Rural Fire Service, and Patches Asphalt is proud to have been the Major Sponsor for the past ten years.

The rodeo is a real community event and sponsors are the key to keeping it alive.

It's Christine's role on the committee to keep sponsors returning and to grow the sponsor's list to make sure the Rodeo remains on the Queanbeyan event calendar long into the future, so Queanbeyan and the surrounding area community can have an affordable family day filled with exciting entertainment for all.

From the beginning some

19-years-ago, Patches Asphalt has become a true local success story. The company now employs some 35 locals who supply its high quality road surfacing service to regional councils and the ACT Government.

So it's likely you travel on the results of their hard work each time you drive.

But don't think your own driveway is too small a job for Patches to quote -

Patches is still the local company that started out serving locals and it hasn't forgotten its beginnings.

When you need asphalt laid, call Patches Asphalt and they'll smooth your way.

You can get in touch with Patches Asphalt on 6297 1450 or via email at bitumen@patchesasphalt.com.au Alternatively, drop in to see them at 87 High Street, Queanbeyan.
