

Weddings and Special Occasions Expo 2014

Going for the 'wow factor'

□ The ladies with all the answers: When you're feeling lost in the lead up to the big day look no further than Quota ladies Kerrie Sturtridge, Julie Willis and Miriam Dadley to guide you and your special someone to style and elegance.

ALRIGHT gentlemen, you've called up all your courage and popped that all important question, but the works not done yet.

There's still the guest list, the venue, photographer, entertainment and looking the part, and as the 2014 Weddings and Special Occasions Expo draws closer you can relax knowing Quota president and expo coordinator Kerrie Sturtridge and her crew of dedicated Quota ladies have you covered.

Starting out as a small weddings fashion parade, the Expo is set to explode with local business and fashion houses coming together to showcase the very best in style, beauty and elegance and this year it's all aimed at the gentlemen.

With the idea coming from one local lady's valiant one-day wedding plan, Kerrie said the expo is designed to offer couples all the very best in one location.

"She planned her entire wedding in a single day," Kerrie said.

With the very best in local style, cuisine, celebrants and all the special touches that make your day perfect, Kerrie said the annual expo is all about the "Wow factor".

So when the big question gets the big answer, be sure to catch this year's Weddings and special events expo for everything every couple needs to make their special day perfect.
