Social club celebrates spirit of giving

AROUND 130 people attended the Orange Social Club Christmas party on Friday night.

The night was held not only to celebrate Christmas, but to raise funds for 13-year-old Mckenzie Monro.

Mckenzie is the daughter of member Tracey Monro and is in need of surgery on her spine.

Funds were also raised for the McGrath Foundation and the Prostate Cancer Foundation of Australia to aid research and funding to cure breast and prostate cancer.

The function was held in the Coral Sea Room at the Orange Ex-Services' Club with entertainment by the Amber Cashel Trio.

Guests were treated to canapes on arrival, followed by a three-course meal.

Host Sergeant Tony Borland and emcee and auctioneer Sergeant Andy Bobin kept the crowds entertained throughout the night.

Items were auctioned, raffles were drawn and prizes were handed out thanks to donations by more than 40 members of the community.

Sergeant Bobin said the fundraiser was a great success.

"During the months it took me to put this night together, I came in contact with some great people and I have been totally overwhelmed by their generosity," he said.

"The night truly represented the spirit of Christmas and what members of the Orange community can achieve when they all work together."

NORM and Deirdre Penhall of Norman J Penhall Funerals are looking forward to providing help and support to families in Orange for many years to come.

In the years since they began operating in 1962, the Penhalls have come in contact with so many families in Orange, and have seen enormous changes in the funeral industry.

Mrs Penhall said, compared to many years ago, the choices being offered to families helps ease the burden of grief.

"Norm and I are fortunate to be supported by a team of long-serving professionals who are able to guide families through their most difficult times," she said.

"We care for these families, not because it benefits our business, but because caring is what our business is about."

The building of the new premises, which includes viewing rooms, a chapel and quiet areas has heralded a new era for the funeral service.

"We are fortunate to have a good relationship with the many ministers in Orange and, for some people, they just feel more comfortable having a service here in the chapel," Mrs Penhall said.

However she says she, her husband and staff enjoy the satisfaction of offering their service for a traditional funeral at one of Orange's many churches.

Unlike many businesses Norman J Penhall Funerals operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year.

"We are here for people at any time of the day or night," Mrs Penhall said.
